Eastern Shore Public Library Builds!

A new library will serve the learning and literacy needs of the entire population of the Shore and a larger, modern main facility will enable Eastern Shore Public Library to play a crucial role in transforming the Shore into a community with a more diversified economy and improved quality of life.

Everyday fun with reading!

ESPL has been proud to host Smart Beginnings workshops for parents and preschool children at all four libraries this spring. The workshops are led by local instructors from public schools and the community who use library books to model effective ways to read aloud with children and help them develop essential components of reading. Workshops are free and no preregistration is required.

The final workshop dates are:

Monday, May 2, 11:00 to 12:00,
Northampton Free Library, Nassawadox

Wednesday, May 4, 9:30 - 10:30,
Chincoteague Island Library

Thursday, May 5, 10:30 to 11:30,
Eastern Shore Public Library, Accomac

Thursday, May 5, 10:30 to 11:30, Cape Charles Memorial Library

UPCOMING EVENTS

Thank you, Grace!

Grace Murphy has volunteered at Eastern Shore Public Library in Accomac for so long that, honestly, we're not exactly sure when she started. But every Monday and Wednesday morning for about 30 years, Grace has been here to search the shelves for patron requests, get the circulation desk ready and shelve some books.

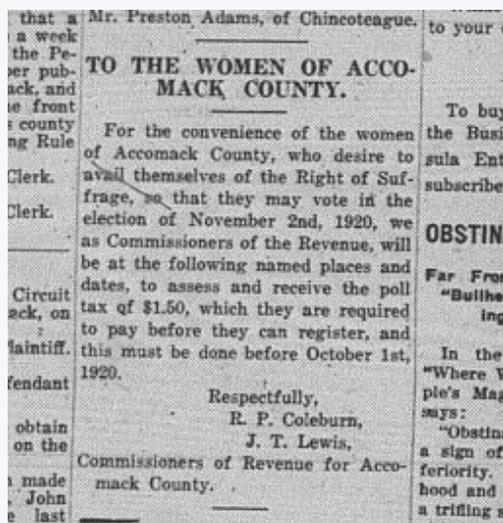

Unfortunately, due to health issues, she is no longer able to come in and help out at her beloved library. We will certainly miss her and can't thank her enough for her many years of dedication to ESPL!

The Eastern Shore News ran a wonderful feature on Grace last year. Read it here.

Historic newspapers in the Eastern Shore Room

The newspapers of the Eastern Shore chronicle the everyday lives of the people who live here. To the family historian, newspapers of the late 19th and early 20th centuries can be helpful because of their abundance of personal news and social items. Besides descriptions of occurrences within the community, they also include information on national, regional, and state events. This provides a wealth of information for the family historian.

IN A BOOK CLUB OR WISH TO START ONE?

The Northampton Free Library has 54 titles in the Book Club Bag program. These bags contain 10 copies of one title and a discussion resource guide to aid conversation. The bags are checked out to one individual in the group and have a six week circulation. Great if you don't want to purchase books all the time. A list of titles can be found here or call Northampton Free Library at 414-0010 and we will be happy to email you a copy.

Learning a new language?
Try these apps
recommended by ESPL
staffer Summer Dahlmans

Learning a new language on the iPad sounded intriguing to me. I decided to try to learn German. I only know a few words even though my husband is German and speaks the language fluently. I figured that I could use his knowledge as a resource if needed.

The first app that I tried out was Nemo German. Read more here.

ESPL also offers the children's language course Muzzy online on our website for FREE! Check out Muzzy and our other free e-resources here.
