Summer Food at ESPL

The Eastern Shore Public Library at Accomac and the Northampton Free Library at Nassawadox will be serving meals one day a week during the Summer Reading Program. Anyone 18 years old or younger can come and eat for free in Accomac on Thursdays, from June 22 through August 10, and in Nassawadox on Fridays from June 23 through August 11, 2017. Meal service begins at noon.

In Virginia, only 13% of children relying on free or reduced price school lunch are also receiving summer meals. By partnering with the Foodbank of Southeastern Virginia and the Eastern Shore and the Accomack County Parks and Recreation department to participate in the national Summer Food Service Program, Eastern Shore Public Library is ensuring children on the Shore have all the brain power they need to learn and read over the summer and succeed during the upcoming school year!

Friends of the Eastern Shore Public Library help open new Little Free Library in Onancock

A new Little Free Library at the corner of Ames and Market Streets in Custis Park will join the movement to share books, bring people together and create communities of readers.

The LFL was designed and built by Accomack County resident Andy Nunnally and donated by Kathy Carmody. Carmody will serve as the library's steward with the help and support of the Friends of the Eastern Shore Public Library and the Onancock Town Council.

See us first!

When you choose to like the Page of a company or organization you might expect to see all of the posts from that Page in your Facebook News Feed, but that is not what actually happens. Facebook algorithms determine which posts you see, and they are not always the ones you would pick if given the choice.

Don't miss out on updates from Eastern Shore Public Library!
