

Report to Director December 2022

Our “Visit with Santa” at the library on 3 December attracted fewer children this year, but was appreciated by those who attended. We held the event inside this year because of the inclement weather, which probably deterred some people from coming. We had 27 children attend, all of whom went home with a book and a candy cane. Some children stayed a while to do some colouring while their grown-ups socialized. Santa joined in when he was not otherwise busy.

We received good news from the shelving company this month – they are willing to continue storing the shelves for the Friends Book Shop without charge while building work continues on the new library. We have notified our volunteers of the new delay for the opening.

I have been reporting on our sorting and shipping of books to Better World Books for sale online. This month the library received a check for $168.25, representing the commission on sales in the previous quarter.
